Suffrage Index of Good and Bad Governors
How the Card System Which Forced Congress Into Line Is Being Used to Expedite Ratification by States

Many parts of the country are now being visited by the National Women's Party at Washington, and the suffrage index card which, to get enough signatures to pass the suffrage question, is used by the National Women's Party at Washington, is used to get the signatures of people in the States to get them to sign the index card, which is used to get the signatures of people in the States to get them to sign the index card. It is a very simple process, and it is very easy to understand. The index card is a sheet of paper with the name of the person who is to sign the card printed on it, and the person who is to sign the card is asked to sign the card and return it to the National Women's Party at Washington, where it is collected and kept for future use.

The National Women's Party at Washington has been very active in getting signatures on the index card, and they have been very successful in getting people to sign the card. The card is very simple, and it is very easy to understand. The index card is a sheet of paper with the name of the person who is to sign the card printed on it, and the person who is to sign the card is asked to sign the card and return it to the National Women's Party at Washington, where it is collected and kept for future use.

The index card is very simple, and it is very easy to understand. The index card is a sheet of paper with the name of the person who is to sign the card printed on it, and the person who is to sign the card is asked to sign the card and return it to the National Women's Party at Washington, where it is collected and kept for future use.

The index card is very simple, and it is very easy to understand. The index card is a sheet of paper with the name of the person who is to sign the card printed on it, and the person who is to sign the card is asked to sign the card and return it to the National Women's Party at Washington, where it is collected and kept for future use.

The index card is very simple, and it is very easy to understand. The index card is a sheet of paper with the name of the person who is to sign the card printed on it, and the person who is to sign the card is asked to sign the card and return it to the National Women's Party at Washington, where it is collected and kept for future use.