The Funniest Things in the Current Plays

To the editor of the New York Times:

Dear Sirs,

I am a frequent reader of your newspaper and am very impressed by the quality of your articles. However, I must say that I find the current issue particularly lacking in humor.

I understand that humor is subjective and that what one person finds funny, another might not. But I believe that there is a universal language of humor that can be enjoyed by all. The current issue seems to lack that.

I would like to suggest that the newspaper consider hiring a humor editor to ensure that the content is more enjoyable for its readers. This would not only improve the quality of the magazine but also help to retain readers.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]
